

Case Study | Angling Direct

Serious about your fishing

Angling Direct is the largest fishing tackle retailer in the UK. The founders started to acquire interests in a number of small fishing tackle shops in Norfolk in 1986. The first Angling Direct branded superstore was opened in 2003 in Norwich. With four divisions – mail order, online (3 international websites), insurance replacement, and a network of superstores – Angling Direct stocks over 40,000 items from leading manufacturers.

Webscale makes it easy to predictively auto-scale in and out, while maintaining a consistent spend.

Challenges

The three international websites of Angling Direct were previously hosted with a UK hosting provider. Scalability became a recurring issue as the business grew. They were also disappointed by the hosting provider's customer support, experiencing slow response times to their tickets. Angling Direct needed a solution that provided scalability, timely support and allowed them to optimize their infrastructure cost.
